

Delve in to the wonderful world of

Tweet your pictures to @GOcomposters

WORMERIES

Pseudoscorpion

Resembling scorpions with their large pincers but at rarely more than 3-4mm they lack the stinging tail.

Springtail

Using their spring loaded 'furcula' they can jump 10cm (despite being less than 6mm long).

Brandling / Tiger worm

Bright red in colour these 'detritivores' feed mainly on partly decomposed plant material.

There's lots to find

As well as the radiant red tiger worms, a wormery can be home to thousands of other creatures. The wealth of creatures convert kitchen and some garden waste into a beautiful dark, crumbly compost that is rich in nutrients.